Activities, attractions and shows at all Disney theme parks are subject to change due to refurbishment schedules at the parks.

Becky Cline joined The Walt Disney Company in 1989 and became a member of the staff of the Walt Disney Archives in 1993. Today, as Director of the Archives, Becky is charged with collecting and preserving all aspects of Disney history and making the material available to researchers from all areas of the Walt Disney Company as well as to historians, writers, documentarians and fans around the world. Her many responsibilities include maintaining and conserving the Archives' collections of historical documents, artwork, character merchandise, costumes, props and memorabilia. In the years since the Archives was established at the Walt Disney Studios in Burbank, California, it has grown from a one-person department to its current staff of thirty and has come to be recognized as a model among corporate archives in the country.

In her position with the Archives Becky has also enjoyed participating in the research and development of many new and exciting programs and fan-based initiatives for the Walt Disney Company including the development and operations team for D23: The Official Disney Fan Club. Born in Glendale, California, and raised in Los Angeles, Becky attended Glendale College and California State University Los Angeles, majoring in Theater Arts. After college, she worked for two years in the Rare Books Department of the Huntington Library in San Marino, California, where she received her first taste of library/archives work.

As an author, Becky has co-authored the books Disney Insider Yearbook, The Walt Disney Studios: A Lot to Remember (2019) and Holiday Magic at Disney Parks (2020) and has written numerous articles on Disney history for magazines such as Disney's twenty-three, Disney Magazine, The Disney Channel Magazine, Persistence of Vision, and The E-Ticket, as well as many other Disney internal publications and websites. She is also a frequent speaker on behalf of The Walt Disney Company, giving talks and presenting seminars on Disney history.

Please note: Photography restrictions apply. Please ask your Adventure Guides for details.

Dr. Mark Penning is the Vice President: Animals, Science and Environment for Disney Parks, Experiences and Products. His role includes overseeing animal care and related experiences at Disney's Animal Kingdom theme park, Disney's Animal Kingdom Lodge, The Seas with Nemo and Friends at Epcot, and the horses at Disney's Fort Wilderness Resort & Campground, along with animal experiences at other locations around the globe. Leveraging the meaningful field conservation initiatives supported by the Disney Conservation Fund, his team shares inspirational stories and experiences of nature and animals with theme park and Resort Guests. His role includes oversight of the company's use of animals in all film and television programming from an animal welfare perspective, making sure that content relating to animals and nature is both accurate and responsible. He has worked on The Lion King, as well as DisneyNature's Born in China and Penguins, the latter filmed in the Antarctic. He also leads a team of environmental specialists working to minimize the company's environmental footprint. His team can be seen in action in The Magic of Disney's Animal Kingdom, now streaming on Disney+ from National Geographic.

Mark is a veterinarian by training and was born and raised in South Africa. He owned and operated a veterinary hospital and a wildlife relocation business in South Africa before joining The Walt Disney Company 10 years ago. He specialized in the treatment of birds and reptiles and has done surgical work in the field on lions, elephants and a host of other species.

Before joining Disney, Mark served as CEO of the South African Association for Marine Biological Research (SAAMBR), based in Durban, South Africa, a non-profit organization dedicated to marine research and conservation. In this capacity, he led a team of animal care professionals in hand-rearing some 500 baby penguins following a catastrophic oil spill off Cape Town. He was delighted to return these brave little birds back to the waters of Cape Town once they had feathered up properly following months of care and could be successfully released. As a veterinarian, he relocated dozens of large sharks, including tiger sharks, between aquariums and back into the ocean. He has also served as President of the World Association of Zoos and Aquariums (WAZA), based currently in Barcelona.

Mark has tremendous passion for all natural habitats and the incredible creatures that depend on them. He has a passion for protecting the environment by convincing people to protect the habitat in their immediate surrounds, and thereby create places for wildlife to live and to thrive. He has traveled extensively through the bushveld in Africa, the forests of South and SE Asia and Central Africa, the deserts of Africa and the Middle East, the outback of Australia, and the wilderness of the Far East, and has enjoyed diving in several locations in the Western Indian Ocean with big sharks and giant manta rays.
